To Whom It May Concern:

Re: Sole Source Provider Certification

This letter certifies that The Forensics Files is the sole creator, publisher, and licensor of the proprietary educational materials sold under The Forensics Files brand. These materials include original debate evidence files, topic-specific research files, subscriptions, instructional resources, strategy materials, and related educational products developed, compiled, edited, and distributed by The Forensics Files.

The intellectual content, organization, editing, formatting, licensing, updates, and delivery of these products are controlled by The Forensics Files. Another publisher or vendor cannot supply the same licensed works as a substitute. If a third-party marketplace lists a The Forensics Files product, that marketplace functions only as a sales channel and is not a separate publisher, licensor, or alternative source for the underlying proprietary product.

Accordingly, when a school, district, university, library, or other educational institution seeks to purchase a specific The Forensics Files product, subscription, or branded resource, The Forensics Files is the sole source for that proprietary item. Purchasing the product through The Forensics Files or an expressly authorized sales channel ensures that the purchaser receives the current authorized version, the applicable institutional license, and any associated delivery or support.

This certification is provided for procurement, purchasing, and vendor-approval purposes when sole-source documentation is required. Please contact The Forensics Files if your purchasing office requires additional documentation or a product-specific quotation.

Sincerely,

Richard Colling
